SUPPLY OF CHIPS LIMITING ABILITY OF AWS TO BRING NEW DATA CENTRES ONLINE: CEO

Can't handle AI demand: Amazon

SPENCER SOPER & MATT DAY February 7

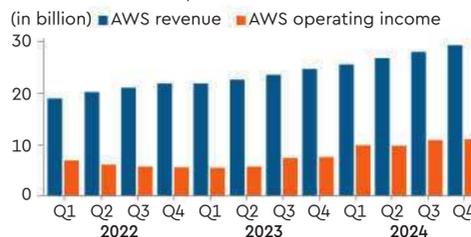

AMAZON WARNED INVESTORS that it could face capacity constraints in its cloud computing division despite plans to invest some $100 billion this year, with most of the money going toward data centers, homegrown chips and other equipment to provide artificial intelligence services.

CEO Andy Jassy, determined for Amazon to become an AI supermarket, is spending big to retain the firm's edge in cloud-computing services. Still, he warned growth would be "lumpy" and hinted Amazon could face capacity issues related to delays in getting hardware and not having sufficient electricity. "It is true we could be growing faster were it not for some of the constraints on capacity," Jassy said on a conference after the release of Q4 results. The concerns echo those of rival Microsoft, which last week said its cloud sales growth was hurt because it didn't have enough data centers to handle demand for its AI products.

Jassy said the supply of chips — from third parties and Amazon's own chip design unit —

SALES AND INCOME KEEP GROWING

Cloud unit remains a profit center and power capacity are limiting the ability of Amazon Web Services (AWS) to bring new data centers online. Those constraints will likely ease in H2 2025, he said.

Amazon spent $26.3 billion in capital expenditures in the last three months of 2024, the vast majority of which went toward AI-related projects within AWS. Jassy told analysts on the call that the amount was "reasonably representative" of the rate of outlays the company planned to make in 2025.

The firm reported that AWS revenue jumped 19% to $28.8 billion in the quarter ended December 31. It was the third straight period of 19% growth for the cloud unit. Operating income generated by the unit was $10.6 billion, exceeding the average projection of $10.1 billion. "AWS growth did not accelerate as anticipated and instead matched Q3 levels, indicating that the firm is challenged by the same types of capacity constraints facing rivals Google and Microsoft," said Sky Canaves, an analyst at Emarketer.

Jassy's warning on AWS growth constraints overshadowed a fairly strong holiday quarter, suggesting the firm's main e-comm & logistics business is fending off competition from Walmart. —BLOOMBERG

Musk calls drones, AI future of warfare

DANA HULL February 7

ELON MUSK, THE CEO of SpaceX, said that the future of warfare is AI and drones in a newly released video of his conversation last summer at the US Military Academy in West Point, New York. "The current war in Ukraine is very much a drone war already," said Musk, 53, who also heads up Tesla Inc. and the X social network. "If there's a major power war, it's very much going to be a drone war."

The billionaire, who now plays a significant role in the US government via his close relationship with President Donald Trump, said the US needs to invest in drones and boost the rate of producing them at home. He was speaking in a fire-side chat with Brigadier General Shane Reeves, the Military Academy's Dean of the Academic Board, on August 16th. Musk posted a link to the 40-minute conversation to X late on Thursday. Musk, who said he often goes to sleep listening to audiobooks of military history, cautioned against complacency by national leaders. "Countries pretty much are geared up to fight the last war, not the next war," he told an audience of armed forces personnel.

The West Point appearance in the summer occurred shortly before Musk fully threw himself into Trump's re-election campaign. Since then, he has become a key player in Washington, where he is leading an aggressive effort to "right-size" the federal government. —BLOOMBERG

OpenAI plans to build Stargate AI data centres across US

MATT O'BRIENAP February 7

OPENAI IS SCOURING the US for sites to build a network of huge data centers to power its artificial intelligence (AI) technology, expanding beyond a flagship Texas location and looking across 16 states to accelerate the Stargate project championed by President Donald Trump. The maker of ChatGPT put out a request for proposals for land, electricity, engineers and architects and began visiting locations in Oregon, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin this week.

Trump touted Stargate, a newly formed joint venture between OpenAI, Oracle and Softbank, shortly after returning to the White House last month. The partnership said it is investing $100 billion — and eventually up to $500 billion —

Trump called the project a 'resounding declaration of confidence in America's potential' under his new administration to build large-scale data centers and the energy generation needed to further AI development. Trump called the project a "resounding declaration of confidence in America's potential" under his new administration, though the first project in Abilene, Texas, has been under construction for months.

Elon Musk, a Trump adviser and fierce rival of OpenAI who is in a legal fight with the company and its CEO Sam Altman, has publicly questioned the value of Stargate's investments. After Trump's announcement, a number of states reached out to OpenAI about welcoming additional data centers, Chris Lehane, OpenAI's vice president of global affairs, told reporters Thursday.

The firm's request for proposals calls for sites with "proximity to necessary infrastructure including power and water." AI uses vast amounts of energy, much of which comes from burning fossil fuels, which causes climate change. —AP

IIM-A PGP placement for 2025 ends; Oyo, BCG among top recruiters

● Fin IQ, NewGen Software Tech lead with 5 offers each in the last round

MANU KAUSHIK New Delhi, February 7

FIN IQ CONSULTING AND NEWGEN SOFTWARE Tech emerged as top recruiters at the Indian Institute of Management (IIM)-Ahmedabad's third and the final round of placements for the PGP post-graduate programme) class of 2025.

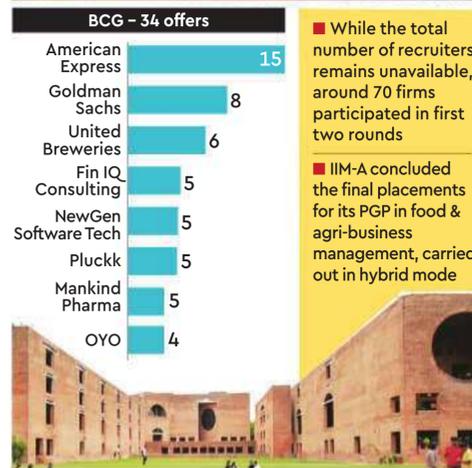

The two firms made five offers each, followed by OYO with four. Students also received international job offers from firms like IKEA, Fast Retailing, Transformation X and Arthur D Little, the institute said.

Companies from BFSI (banking, financial services and insurance), IT consulting, core manufacturing and infrastructure segments dominated the recruitment process which concluded on Thursday.

Around 70 recruiters participated in the first two rounds of placements this year, though the final number is yet to be released. The two rounds were dominated by investment banking, management consulting, conglomerates and consumer durables & goods companies.

Boston Consulting Group emerged as the largest recruiter in the first two rounds with 34 offers. American Express rolled out 15 offers, the highest in the cards and financial advisory cohort, while Goldman Sachs led the investment banking space with eight job offers.

United Breweries led the consumer goods category by making six offers, followed by Pluukk and Mankind Pharma and group companies with five offers each. Conglomerates such as the Adani Group, Aditya Birla Group, GMR Group, CK Birla Group, and Tata Administrative Services had also participated.

IIM-A also concluded the final placement for its PGP in food & agribusiness management (PGP-FABM), which was carried out in a hybrid mode. About 44 students got offers in companies like Grant Thornton Bharat, Accenture, EY, Nestle, PepsiCo, Amul and Reliance Industries.

IIM Calcutta started its final placements on Friday, while final placement interviews for the PGP programme at IIM Bangalore will be held between February 10 and 16.
